NEWARK APPROVES RECREATION PLAN; ELECTION SEEN

At a public meeting last week, and by a vote of 58 to 2, Newark's Park, Recreation and Parkway Plan was accepted.

This tax-supported plan will be put before the people of Newark School District in a special election sometime in the next few months, according to Committee Chairman William Hildebrand.

Supervisor Chester E. Stanley attended the meeting and gave an outline of the procedure for the special election. His three points were: (1) Submit boundaries and map of proposed district to Boundary Commission, (2) Secure signatures of 30 per cent of voters who voted in last governor's election, (3) Send these to the Board of Supervisors, who set up the election. The group agreed to these three steps.

1. "Good leadership, especially during the first year of organization."

2. "A certain percent of the general fund for capital outlay." (Included in the temporary budget already planned by the Recreation Committee.)

3. "Formation of an advisory council to meet with leaders and trustees."

A tax of between 20 and 25 cents will be required, Hildebrand estimated.

'NEW LOOK' MAKES LAW LOOK AGAIN

Things are not always what they seem, Deputy Sheriffs Dean Davenport and Lawrence White decided after arresting a fleeing burglary suspect early Monday in Mission San Jose.

The suspect was daintily garbed in formal gown, lingerie and lipstick, but identified himself (that's right) as Joseph R. Valencia, 24, of 105 Fourth Street, Irvington.

Davenport and White were put on Valencia's trail by John A. Hupman of Driscoll Road, who complained a prowler had filched his wife's clothing from a clothes-line.

The officers cruised by, spotted Valencia's sedan speeding toward Mission San Jose, gave chase, and stopped the car after a short distance.

"I heard about these female impersonators and I wanted to see what it would be like," Valencia told them.

He was booked on suspicion of vagrancy, pleaded guilty Tuesday before Judge A. G. Norris, and was given a 10-day jail term.

The officers are checking (1) possibility that Valencia may have burglarized a neighborhood home, and (2) his story that he is an ex-convict from Nebraska. Valencia said he has been living here with relatives.

ALVARADO GIVEN FLOOD CURB PLAN; $15,000 FOR ALAMEDA CREEK SURVEY

A plan to protect Alvarado from a repetition of last winter's disastrous floods was submitted this week by the Alameda County Flood Control District.

The plan is part of a $3,500,000 project suggested for Zone 3, which comprises not only Alvarado, but also South Hayward, Mt. Eden, Valle Vista and Tennyson.

According to a map accompanying the plan, submitted by Engineer Herbert G. Crowle, the Alvarado protection would consist of:

1. A levee from Highway 17 to Plummer Slough, shielding the town from floods to the southeast.

2. Pumps and a 42-inch pipeline down Benson Road to siphon excess water from the town into Alameda Creek downstream.

3. Widening and straightening Alameda Creek some three miles to the Bay. A 400-foot channel is contemplated.

4. Widening and straightening Alameda Creek west and north of Alvarado, and driving a 170-foot channel up to Valle Vista Road for drainage.

"Revisions will be made if necessary," before the Flood Control District issues its final report. This report will be used as a basis for starting actual flood-control proceedings, explained Crowle.

These proceedings, however, must be initiated by local residents and by organizations such as chambers of commerce, he stressed.

FEDERAL FUNDS

Fifteen thousand dollars in federal money has been allocated for flood-control surveys on Alameda Creek, Congressman George Miller (Dem., Alameda) this week notified the Township Chamber of Commerce.

Repr. Miller said he was informed by Col. Byrnes, division engineer for the U. S. Army, which handles such surveys, that the $15,000 is available under an $800,000 nationwide flood-curb budget. Also allocated was $7,400 for surveys on San Lorenzo Creek.

Miller added he and Col. Byrnes will visit this area next week together with county and federal flood-control officials. His call to Eugene Manning, secretary-manager of the Township Chamber, came in response to a letter written last week by Manning asking if Southern Alameda County was included in the curtailed federal budget.

Flood-control here was stymied, according to Manning, when the Korean War chopped off allocations for the Army Engineer survey.

CROP-DUSTER K.O.'s ALVARADO POWER

George Ball, flying for the Kohler Crop-Dusting Service, snipped a PG&E power line with his landing gear shortly before 8 a.m. while dusting cucumbers along Smith Road.

The broken line cut off power in Alvarado for nearly an hour while PG&E crews rushed repairs. Some sections towards Valle Vista were cut out for three hours.

Harvey Kohler, flying another plane near Ball, spotted his partner's mishap, which nearly tore the left wheel off Ball's ship. Kohler flew back to Centerville Airport, summoned crash crews, and awaited Ball's landing attempt.

When Ball flew in, however, he maneuvered so adroitly he barely nosed over, and emerged unhurt.

PG&E Manager Peter Juhl said he will bill the Kohlers for repairs to the power line.

HOSPITAL BOND VOTE APPROVED FOR NOVEMBER 4

A $1,000,000 bond issue to build Washington Township's own hospital probably will appear on the November 4 ballot here, along with the names of Presidential electors.

This was tentatively decided Wednesday night by directors of the township's Hospital District after consultation with Architect Larue Sorenson.

Sorenson, a specialist in hospital design, submitted plans calling for a modern, two-story reinforced concrete building on the district's Santos Road site.

The architect declined to give a cost estimate until he has developed blueprints of the building. But the 50-bed structure would cost around $1,000,000, equipped, if costs arrived at elsewhere hold here.

Sorenson said if the bonds were passed it will be "about 2½ years" before the hospital opens, by which time State experts estimate population here will have tripled. Therefore, he said, he is making the plans flexible enough to expand to 150 or 180 beds by adding one or two extra stories on the building.

L. S. Whitaker, chairman of the hospital directors, stressed that local bonding seems the only solution, since "we have dropped from 12th to 38th on the State-aid priority list, and now are lumped with Hayward."

Isolated communities like Lone Pine and Garberville now top the list, he said, and it will be five years or more before Washington Township gets a sniff of State aid for a hospital.

Doctors in the area met with Sorenson Tuesday and gave tentative approval to his layout.

Whitaker says he thinks a $1,000,000 bond issue could be retired out of district taxes alone within 20 years, but added the hospital is expected to produce revenues to speed the process.

The district will have $200,000 in tax money on hand before the hospital opens, Whitaker continued. Reports Wednesday showed almost $100,000 in the bank.

Sorenson said a wood-frame building could be constructed for about $100,000 less than for concrete, but explained this (1) would be incapable of expansion, and (2) would have a life of only 20 years or so.

Director M. F. Silva declared himself against "makeshifts that our grandchildren will have to replace," and Director Allan Walton moved to choose the concrete structure.

Sorenson—who is working on a $4800 retainer fee—said he will present cost estimates at the next meeting early in September. Deadline to qualify the election for the November 4 ballot is around September 10, according to Counsel E. A. Quaresma.

Also slated to be on the ballot are names of three directors who will stand for re-election: Silva, A. E. Alameda and Sam G. Scott. Final day for filing for this job is August 30.

WATER RATIONING OR METERS THREAT TO ELLSWORTH ORCHARD HOMEOWNERS

The Alameda County Water District this week again threatened to cut off free water it has been forced to supply 90 homeowners in the Ellsworth Orchard area of Niles.

"Sell us your rights for $37.50 and submit to water meters, or we will stop delivering you more than 125 gallons a day," was the word, in effect, sent by W. D. Patterson, president of the water district.

However Patterson's letter did not say just when the free deliveries would stop. A similar threat was delivered in April.

The district has been supplying water to the suburb because of a 65-year-old agreement with the Ellsworth Estate, which formerly owned the land. But now, say Patterson's letters, the land has been subdivided, and lot-owners are entitled to no more than 125 gallons per acre.

In spite of which, the argument continues, an average of around 120,000 gallons per day is being used in the tract—or about 100,000 more than it is entitled to.

Patterson repeated his offer to buy the water rights for about $37.50 per home. This offer was rejected by written notice signed by 44 home owners last April.

The Water District cited the recent ruling by San Francisco's City Attorney Dion Holm that water users around Pleasanton are no longer entitled to free service granted when the Spring Valley Co. gained control of their rights.

Patterson's letter also repeated the suggestion that Ellsworth Orchard dwellers name a committee to discuss the matter with the district.

There was no indication today that this would be done. Neither did the district say when the "rationing" or 125 gallons per day would be imposed.

MODEL BUSTER 1st AT NATIONAL MEET

As there were two or three hundred competing in every class, Frankie's triumph is considered a distinct honor.

Other Model Busters who won trophies include Don Woods, winning three trophies—second in jet, second in A-speed, and third in precision control line—and Kenneth Andrus who won a third-place trophy in C-speed, and four medals.

More than 4,000 young model plane flyers were present from three different countries, United States, Canada, and Mexico.

MOUGHON FACING SUPERIOR COURT

Raymond Moughon, 46, Niles steelworker, must face trial in Oakland superior court for the highway deaths of four San Jose motorists.

This was the ruling Tuesday of Judge E. A. Quaresma, who said there was "sufficient evidence" to hold Moughon for the higher court on four felony manslaughter charges.

Moughon was the driver of a heavy sedan which on June 15 plowed headon into a station wagon north of the Southern Pacific underpass in Niles, killing Henrique Bettencourt, 65; his daughter, Theresa, 23; his cousin, Mary Ribeiro, 78; and David Aguiar, his grandson.

Last week the prosecution, represented by Deputy District Atty. John Schauer, contended Moughon was intoxicated at the time of the wreck. Schauer presented evidence in the form of blood samples to show Moughon's corpuscles were still mixed with alcohol nearly four hours later.

Moughon's attorney fought introduction of the samples on the grounds they were taken at Fairmont Hospital without his client's consent.

This contention was repeated Tuesday by Attorney Frank Crews. But Judge Quaresma said "no force was involved" in taking the blood sample.

When Crews moved to dismiss the charges on grounds of insufficient evidence, the judge turned that down as well. He allowed Moughon to remain at liberty on $1000 bail.

If convicted, the local man faces possible prison terms ranging up to 40 years.

Last week, his attorney gave a hint that a possible defense may rest on a mysterious car which a passerby said whizzed past at the time of the crash, and which may have forced Moughon to swerve into the path of the Bettencourt machine.

TRUSTEES TO CALL BOND, TAX BALLOT

A $1,500,000 bond issue to finance expansion of Washington Union High School will be laid before the Township voters sometime in October.

This was decided Tuesday night by high school trustees, and announced by President Sam G. Scott.

The trustees approved plans by Architects Birge M. Clark and Walter Stromquist, of Palo Alto, to build a plant to handle 1400 students. Principal J. V. Goold warned the present school—designed for 800—will have 900 in the fall, and 1200 in another year or two.

Goold estimated the bonds will cost local property-owners 35 cents per $100 the first year, but will average-out at only 17½ cents over a 25-year period.

In addition, the trustees agreed to ask for a 25-cents boost in the current 75-cent operating tax to care for the bigger plant.

As approved, the plans contain:

1. Twelve new classrooms, south of the present building.

2. A southern addition to the present cafeteria dining-room.

3. A girls' gymnasium south of the present boys' gym, reconstruction of shower rooms in the boys' gym, plus a $77,000 swimming pool between the two buildings "if the public decides it wants a pool." Several chambers of commerce have endorsed a swimming pool since there is none at any local school or playground.

4. Agriculture shops and classrooms south of the gyms.

5. Homemaking and arts-and-crafts buildings south of the main building.

6. Classrooms and counseling rooms in the present home-making wing.

7. Eastern additions to the present shop building.

8. Moving the present music building northeast to provide a garage for buses.

9. A music building with dressing rooms next to the auditorium.

10. Shifting the tennis courts south of the new girls' gym.

11. A 700-foot offstreet parking lot.

The district to be taxed if the bonds pass includes the entire Township, with a taxable valuation of more than $27,000,000. Goold says he expects this to rise to $33,000,000 before all work is completed and bonds are sold, thus giving extra bonding capacity.

The district is free of bonded indebtedness at present. A commercial wing and 20 acres of additional land to the south—on which much of the proposed addition would be built—have been purchased out of savings

UNITED CRUSADE APPOINTS JUHL, READIES SPEAKERS

Peter Juhl, community leader from Niles, has accepted the chairmanship of Washington Township's small industry division, a unit of the United Crusade's Commerce and Industry department.

Juhl's acceptance of the campaign post was announced by Maurice B. Marks, United Crusade general campaign chairman for the township. Marks declared:

The small industry division of the United Crusade's Commerce and Industry department is concerned with solicitation in firms employing between 10 and 50 men and women. The drive opens here September 30, with a goal of $20,000.

Approximately 12 firms, employing 400 people, will be solicited by Juhl's division. The Chapter Plan, an organization plan in which each industry forms its own Crusade organization under the leadership of a committee representative of both labor and management, is expected to be inaugurated by the local firms.

Juhl, who will work closely with F. A. Louis Meyers, small industry chairman for the United Crusade's southern area, described the Crusade as "a break for the contributor, the volunteer worker and the participating causes."

"United Crusade, by uniting the annual appeals of seven major causes and more than 80 local and national agencies, is the answer to the long felt need for fewer and more successful fund raising campaigns in our area," Juhl said. "I'm sure the men and women employed in our local industrial firms will support this 'many-in-one' appeal with enthusiasm."

Juhl, manager of the Niles office of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company for five years, is active in many community organizations. He is president of the Niles Chamber of Commerce and past president of both the Rotary Club and the Washington Township Men's Club. He has served as chairman of the Red Cross Campaign for several years.

The United Crusade, in which 12 communities are participating, includes the East Bay Community Chests, Red Cross, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, American Cancer Society, Alameda County Heart Association, United Cerebral Palsy Association and the United Fund.

Meantime, a speaking campaign to tell the story of the United Crusade was launched this week

At the same time over 100 East Bay men and women, many of them already accomplished speakers, met to polish speaking techniques under the guidance of Dr. Fred Stripp, lecturer in speech at the University of California.

Participating in the speakers' bureau organizational and training meeting were these Washington Township residents: Mrs. Meredith Rehrig, Bruce Michael, Maurice B. Marks and Mrs. Stella Benbow.

DECOTO SIDEWALKS STILL VOLUNTARY

Possibility of a sidewalk-tax district for Decoto was tossed around, then tossed out of the Decoto Chamber of Commerce this week.

Manuel Hidalgo, president of the chamber and chairman of the sidewalk committee, reported 100 individuals have signed for them, but added:

"Most of them want to be taxed rather than pay in a lump sum. Perhaps we ought to form a sidewalk district, and float bonds."

But several members objected. Countered Frank Rebello:

"Nobody'd loan us money to put in 22 miles of sidewalks here at $4 a foot. Some folks would be paying for 20 years before they ever saw a sidewalk."

Rebello also said he did not believe those who signed Hidalgo's petition knew what they were signing, and cited one man who he said told him "the county's going to put them in free."

Hidalgo denied his committee passed out such information, but the tax district idea died. Today Hidalgo said he wll continue to seek signups on a voluntary basis. Estimated cost of the walks: $3.50 per running foot.

PG&E GETS MORE 'JUICE' IN NILES

Juhl said a new 60,000-volt transmission line paralleling one already in existence from the vicinity of Mission San Jose was "cut in" to the Pacific States Steel mill last Sunday.

Juhl explained increased consumption at the mill made the new line necessary. Final negotiations for rights-of-way recently were concluded with Herb Harrold Jr., owner of key property involved.

The new line permits flexibility of operation both for PG&E and Pacific States Steel, Juhl went on. Both lines, as well as one to Hayward, are tied-into Decoto-Jarvis substation, Juhl said.

BRISTOW STEPS OUT AS CO. SCHOOL HEAD

Dr. Georgina T. Droitcour, principal of John Muir Elementary School, Berkeley, has just been elected president of the Board of Education for Alameda County Schools, succeeding E. Dixon Bristow of Niles.

A member of the board since 1942, Dr. Droitcour began her career in education 30 years ago. She has served the Berkeley Public Schools as vice principal of the McKinley Adult School, director of curriculum and research, and principal of the Le Conte Elementary School.

Bristow, superintendent of the Niles School District, holds a 27-year service record with the board. The retiring president has been in the educational profession for 29 years, having gained wide experience in both urban and rural school practices.

The five-member board has been meeting throughout the week in the office of Dr. Vaughn D. Seidel, superintendent of Alameda County Schools, to consider the rural school program for 1952-53.

Other board officials attending the meetings include George E. Furbush of Alameda and Esther McStay of Hayward.

Summarizing the achievements of the board, Dr. Seidel commented, "Because of these experienced members, the county's rural school program has been able to advance to a place of prominence on both the national and international scene.

"In his recent book, 'Curriculum Improvement in Public School systems,' Dr. Hollis L. Caswell, dean of Teachers' College, Columbia University, has devoted a full chapter to the Alameda County program to illustrate what the experts consider to be the latest and best thinking in rural education."

CENTERVILLE C.C. SEEKS SECOND STREET

Hints that the opening of Stevens Street may again become an issue were delivered Monday before the Centerville Chamber of Commerce.

"We're a one-street town," complained Allan Walton, druggist and president of the Township Chamber.

"These new subdivisions are going to have their own shopping centers, and unless we get some more streets, Main is going to be another East Fourteenth Street. We need more business streets to hold the town together."

Several members commented bitterly that the chamber spent $500 for a survey to open Stevens between Baine and Central Avenues three years ago, only to find the Supervisors were unwilling to condemn property owned by one balky landholder at the north end.

Stevens Street — just west of Main—now dead-ends at Baine Avenue, and the chamber has wanted to push it south to Central both for business and safety reasons—to eliminate mid-Main Street turnarounds.

President William Clark agreed to appoint a committee to study the opening. He named Walton, Lee S. Williams and Edgar A. Van Scoy.

However Williams, a rancher, declared himself firmly opposed to spending county money on the project.

"Let the subdividers do it, or the property owners who will benefit by opening the street," Williams asserted.

Attorney LeRoy Broun commented businessmen and landowners might form a road district to develop the abutting property, and tax themselves to pay for it if they felt it profitable.

"We don't want to be a one-street town!" Walton concluded.

Plug for Allen Court

Fire Commissioner Fred Rogers said he had ordered the plug from the Alameda County Water District in response to several requests by worried residents in the neighborhood.

Matt Whitfield, water district engineer, said that only approval from the State Division of Highways is needed before the plug can be installed. According to committeemen from the Centerville Chamber of Commerce, this already has been informally given.

BERSERK BEARCATS BATTER TWA, 22-0, SCORE 13 IN FIRST

By TONY ROGERS

Centerville's Bearcats got it all in a hurry Sunday with a 13-run first inning, then went on to ice a touted TWA flier nine from San Francisco by a score of 22-0.

No less than 18 Bearcats stalked to the plate in the opening stanza. Five hits, six walks and five TWA errors permitted the 13 scores. Nine more hits in later frames completed the wreckage.

It was left to the TWA's to provide the game's big thrill, however. In the eighth inning, with two sacks loaded and none away, all runners took leads as the hit-and-run sign was hoisted. Bearcat Roderick lined a ball to Cox at short who fired to Machado at second, picking off Marshall. Machado then tossed to Berosall at first to catch Bettencourt.

Stick work paid off for the Bearcats. Harold Faria and Lawrence Fernandez belted triples and Marshall accounted for a double in the fat first inning. Haden Freitas clouted a homer in the fourth with two aboard. Marshall rapped his second double in the sixth to chase in the 18th and 19th runs.

The tally rose to 22 in the seventh on a double by Lemos and singles by Garcia and Dutra—assisted by another TWA error.

The fading Fliers also managed a pair of double plays: Petrine to Phipps and Petrine to Machado to Berosall. But 10 errors by the shaky TWA nine robbed the victory of some of its lustre.

LOTS OF DEER FOR HUNTERS TOMORROW

Deer in California's coastal areas appear to be plentiful and in good condition, according to wardens of the Department of Fish and Game. generalizing on hunters' prospects for the August 9 opening of the first quarter of the state's two hunting seasons.

From one-half hour before sunrise, Saturday, to one-half hour after sunset, September 14, hunters may take two bucks in portions of 29 central and south coastal counties. The early deer hunting area is bounded on the north by Mendocino, Glenn and the southerly portion of Tehama County, and extends south generally in a two-and three-county-wide belt to the northern San Diego County line.

Deer hunting in the balance of the state runs from September 20 to October 19.

In spite of half a dozen new legislative laws designed to protect lives and landowners' property, hunters will find an abundance of posted property, the wardens report. Among the new laws are rulings against damaging of fences, injuring livestock and shooting within 150 yards of an occupied building.

ANDERSON, SOUZA PACE VFW TO 3-1 UPSET TRIUMPH OVER KLEINE SOFTS

By BOB HIRD

Irvington Veterans of Foreign Wars' ace tandem, Earl Anderson and Dave Souza, pitched and batted the Vets to an upset 3-1 victory over league-leading Kleine's Friday night on the Washington High School Diamond.

Souza cashed his chips in the fifth inning when he broke up a pitcher's' duel between Anderson and Ted Garcia with a two-run double. Souza drove in Vic Hernandez, who had walked, and Al James, who had singled.

Anderson, in gaining his fourth win of the season, held the Centervillers to three safeties, struck out six and walked five.

The VFW got off to a 1-0 lead in the second inning on a walk plus two errors by the third sacker, Mo Oliveira.

The Township Softball leaders looked as though they might knot it again in the last frame when Harvey Hernandez doubled and moved to third on an error with only one out. But Anderson recovered and retired the next two batters for the win.

The win gained the Vets a three-way tie for second place.

L&V CRACKS TIE WITH U. S. PIPE

The L&V softballers broke up a tie ball game Monday night as they pushed across six runs in the last inning to defeat U. S. Pipe, 11 to 5.

The Centervilles scored their six runs on singles by Joe Gonzales and Lee Moora, and a three-bagger by Winning Pitcher Ralph Villescaz.

The Pipemen contributed five errors in the inning.

The Pipemen took a 5-0 lead in the fifth frame on a two-run single by Walter Hughes but L&V's catcher, Jack Ferraris, led off the sixth with a home-run to tie it up again.

Villescaz, in earning his third decision, limited the Pipemen to three hits, all singles.

HUSKIES EDGE SANTA CRUZ, 3-2

With the aid of three miscues in the first frame, and the pitching of Bob Hird and Bob Lunsford, Washington Townships Huskies nipped the Santa Cruz Junior Seahawks 3-2 last Sunday on the Huskie's diamond.

The local nine tallied all three runs in the opening stanza on one hit and the three timely errors. Vern Perry's single brought in the only earned run. The Santa Cruz pitcher, Frank Murphy, then settled down and blanked the Huskies for the remaining eight frames.

Hird pitched the first six innings. He yielded one unearned run, allowed four hits, fanned five and walked three. Lunsford pitched the last three frames and yielded a round tripper by the Seahawks third-sacker, Kirsten. Lunsford struck out two and walked two. Hird received credit for the win. Perry led the Huskies at the plate with two for three.

PUBLIC RELATIONS OR LAWS, CLAIM

Unless businessmen voluntarily promote good relations with the public, they are likely to find themselves forced into them by government regulation, a prominent public-relations executive warned the Niles Rotary Club last week.

"We must be careful to make friends before that happens," advised Bert Stewart, secretary of the National Automobile Club and former president of the East Bay Public Relations Association.

Stewart listed two bases for good public relations:

1. "Respect the rights of the individual."

2. "Let the other fellow have his say."

He stressed good public relationships are primarily a matter of willingness on the part of the businessman.

Stewart was introduced by Vernon Ellsworth.

SHERIFF AIDES ARE SOUGHT FOR FALL TRAINING CLASSES

Enrollments are now being accepted from pospective Sheriff's Reserves, in preparation for initial briefing sessions in the new fall-winter training course scheduled the week of September 8 in Eden and Washington Townships.

Sheriff's Lt. Stanley N. Petersen said a preliminary meeting for student volunteers will be held for Washington Township residents Monday, September 8, at 7 p.m., in the Washington Union High School Cafeteria, in Centerville.

Sheriff's Lts. Petersen and Floyd Heffron of Santa Rita, in charge of the civil defense training program, will conduct the preliminary meeting, explaining details of the forthcoming reserve classes.

Recruits will be required to enroll on civil defense blanks, and be fingerprinted for future screening through criminal and subversive files. Screening will be completed before final acceptance of volunteers, the officers explained.

Fall training classes for prospective sheriff's reserves, and for those previous students who did not complete the required training hours for graduation will open the week of September 15 throughout Southern Alameda County.

A total of 90 hours classroom study will be required for graduation in the course, which involves all phases of law enforcement work required of regular members of the sheriff's department. Classes will conclude the week of May 18, 1953, with graduation exercises and deputization ceremonies scheduled for June 6, 1953.

Classes will be conducted Mondays from 7 to 10 p.m. at Washington Union High, Centerville; Tuesdays at San Lorenzo High School, 7-10 p.m., and Thursdays at Santa Rita Rehabilitation Center, 7:30-10:30 p.m.

SONG FEST TONIGHT

An "enchanting evening" of folk music is assured the public with the presentation of the twin bill Folk Song Festival at Woodminster Amphitheater tonight.

Besides Marais and Miranda, internationally famous folk song stars, the same program will feature Kurt Weill's charming folk comedy, "Down in the Valley." Hit tunes include "The Little Black Train," "The Lonesome Dove," "Hop Up My Ladies," "Down in the Valley" and "Sourwood Mountain," accompanied by Gregory Millar and orchestra.

AREA SAID FREE OF 'SLEEP' ILL

There is no present cause for alarm over the possibility of infectious encephalitis becoming prevalent in Alameda County. This is the opinion voiced today by Dr. James C. Malcolm, Alameda County health officer, and Harold F. Gray, engineer-manager of the Alameda County Mosquito Abatement District.

Cases of infectious encephalitis apparently increased in the central valley of California. It is a contagious disease spread by infected mosquitoes, and differs from the encephalitis which sometimes follows a case of mumps or measles.

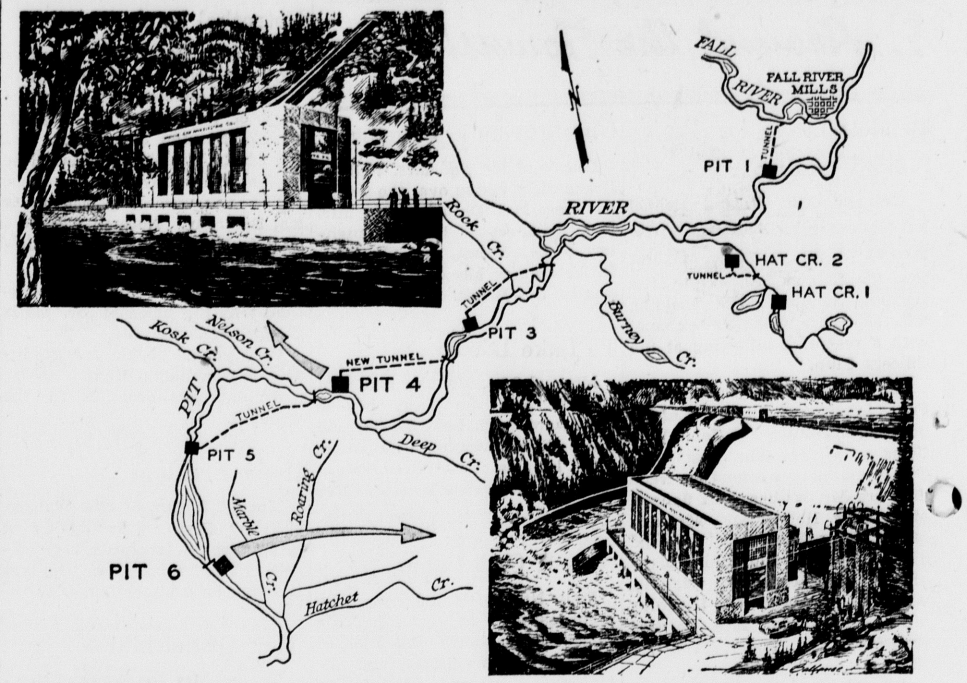
Dr. Malcolm and Gray said average temperatures in Alameda County "are lower than that normally needed for development of the disease in the mosquito." They added:

"Investigations in recent years have not found a single infected mosquito in the county. Mosquitoes do exist in rural sections near poorly maintained dairy drains, open cesspools, industrial waste disposals, excessive irrigations, and early-flooding duck clubs. However, almost all parts of the county, except Murray Township, are protected by the control programs of the Mosquito Abatement District."

Up to this date no cases of the infectious type of encephalitis have been found in humans in the county this year, the experts said. Three cases have been reported in horses in the eastern part of the county.

One suspected case was reported in Mission San Jose last week, but the tentative diagnosis has not been confirmed.

The first borax produced in California was from deposits in Lake County, mined in 1864.



Two new hydroelectric power plants (sketched above) are planned by the Pacific Gas and Electric Company on the Pit River in Shasta County. In applications pending before the Federal Power Commission, PG&E proposed investing $45 million to build the big power installations. Added to the five existing plants in the Company's Pit River system, the two projects will bring the stream's total electric might to 440,000 kilowats. Locations of the new powerhouses are indicated by arrows. Pit 4 (upper) will have an installed capacity of 84,000 kilowats, and Pit 6 (lower) will be rated at 60,000 kilowats.

Licenses Restored

Reinstatement of their drivers' licenses was won this week by Eugene H. Brandt of 629 Vallejo Street, Niles; Jose B. Jasso, of Newark; Jose M. Augirre of Centerville, and Robert G. Leal of Decoto.

Jessie M. Jones of Niles suffered a license suspension for failure to report insurance after an accident, according to the State Department of Motor Vehicles.

The FARMERS CORNER

by Ralph H. Taylor
Executive Secretary Agricultural Council of California

ONE SIMPLE HOE

How would you go about increasing the production of field crops in Afghanistan by 500 per cent?

Organize a commission, employ experts, ship in tractors and equipment, better seed, fertilizers, spend several million dollars?

Here is how it was actually accomplished:

"In Chipmunk Coulee near Stoddard, Wisconsin, 4-H Club members heard the plaint of an American farm advisor in Afghanistan: 'These people here don't even have a hoe!' The club members took up a collection of $4.50. It bought a hoe which was sent to Afghanistan. Local blacksmiths handforged 100 copies. Afghan farmers were quick to see how much better the hoe was than the pointed sticks used for cultivating their crops since time beyond memory. Then a factory produced 30,000 hoes on the American pattern. Crops cultivated with hoes increased production five-fold."

SOLUTION OFTEN AT HAND

This is the introduction to an article by Oswald B. Anderson in The Nation's Agriculture. It deals with world unrest resulting from the desire of land-hungry masses for land. This brief account also forcibly illustrates the fact that while we are often inclined to search among the clouds for solutions to great problems, frequently the solutions are obscured in the shadows of our own feet.

Great problems are often only entangled masses of small problems. While the great problem may appear insoluble, the small problems which comprise it may well be within the grasp of every one of us.

Take, for instance, the problem of a more responsive, more efficient, more economical government—the earnest desire of every thoughtful taxpayer. Admittedly, the most effective way of realizing that objective would be a sweeping reformation imposed at the top. Few feel equal to such a great responsibility.

INDIVIDUAL EFFORT VITAL

We need to remember that man's most striking accomplishments on a monumental scale in a brief span are usually destructive. Constructive accomplishments take time and the effort of many individuals. Shasta Dams are built by moving a comparatively few yards of earth and rock at a time, and later on, laying pieces of steel and buckets of concrete.

Efficient, economical government is secured by much the same process. Individual citizens striving to do just their small individual parts are the key. Having an interest in local affairs, taking notice of the official acts of public officials, becoming acquainted with them and letting them know of your interest, being concerned with the local schools, protesting what is not right, commending what is in the public interest—the leaven of such activity will spread farther than you imagine.

A simple hoe causes a revolution in Afghan agriculture. Alert individual citizens can bring similar sweeping changes for the good in our local communities, in our State, and in the Nation through the cumulative effect of innumerable simple acts of good citizenship.

TV FOR SCHOOLS?

Members of the Alameda County Board of Education passed a resolution Tuesday empowering Dr. Vaughn D. Seidel, county schools superintendent, to conduct a research program on the uses of television for the schools.

The Federal Communications Commission has set aside channel 9 in the Bay Area exclusively for educational purposes.

The research project authorized by the board is for determination of the most feasible uses of TV for education here in the Bay Area. Dr. Seidel is president of the Bay Area Educational TV Association, which has applied for Channel 9.

TV NEWS

By LEO BOHANNON

The movie-makers have given up. For so long the master minds of the film industry had looked askance at television, had remained haughtily aloof from this upstart of the entertainment field. But that was when video was having its growing pains. Now that TV is just about to become of age, the movie men are finding that the old adage was never more true: if you can't beat 'em, join 'em! Quietly, and without fanfare, the major studios have moved into the video field and sources close to things say that by next year more than 50 per cent of the film industry will be for television. . . In two or three years, it is estimated, a total of 90 per cent of movieland production will be for video. Ah this television! . . .

A recent survey of 5,000 television families showed that only seven per cent were dissatisfied with their service technician. . . And speaking of video servicemen, the new TV stations will create a need for 170,000 new video technicians. And they should be thoroughly trained . . . especially when you stop to consider that in a new 20-inch set, for example, there are over 1,600 items, including tiny strips of wire, nuts, bolts, washers, screws, condensers, etc.

Oh, yes, and in another survey conducted by a Chicago outfit, it was found that nine out of ten owners still have their original TV sets and 80 per cent of those surveyed would again purchase the same brand.

The greatest values in the township. You be the judge. Come in and look over our top sets . . . Inspect any detail. Compare any feature. Let our expert technicians handle your service problems. . . Then decide. . . We're sure you'll be doubly satisfied, and we'll welcome you at

BURGLARY'S ITS OWN PUNISHMENT

Youthful burglars found their loot a punishment in itself when they broke into Elderberry Park's lunchroom last Friday night.

Proprietor R. K. Davis reported the intruders forced a screen door, stole seven bottles of beer and a box of cigars. From evidence at the scene, deputies deducted they drank the beer and smoked the cigars by the park pool.

Other evidence showed the young burglars became actively sick from their unaccustomed debauch. They left without taking anything else from the park.

FULL VALUE FOR TAXES

This week two more districts announced they will ask for bond issues, and already the calamity howlers are at work.

Trustees of Washington High present a case for a $1,500,000 issue to permit the school to accomodate pupils sure to pass through its doors in the next few years. And the hospital district will seek $1,000,000 —more or less—to provide the Township with a 50-bed public infirmary.

Wails of pain already are arising in some quarters. It seems taxes are too high already, and that any more levies will bust the camel's back.

A few weeks back we commended the Union Sanitary directors for taking a bold step to keep their district abreast of new population and industry. Today the same words go to the high school trustees and the hospital directors.

To the argument that taxes are too high, we reply, sure, but what taxes? The high school's? That organization has been providing some of the State's best secondary educational facilities at a cost of 75 cents per $100. The trustees saved enough out of that to build a new wing and buy 20 acres of land on which they now intend to expand the plant. This is sound management, isn't it?

The hospital district has been exacting a virtually-painless 20 cents for the past four years, to the point where it has enough cash to finance plans and tide over starting operations of a hospital. That, too, is sound management. Like the high school district —on which incidentally, two hospital directors serve —there is no wild urge to spend public funds. Instead, there has been farsighted planning, the kind that saves money in the long run.

Taxes are high, yes. But they are federal taxes, the variety that takes seven out of every eight dollars you pay the tax collector. Confusion and mismanagement may exist in Washington, D. C. But not, in our opinion, in Washington Township, California. Here a dollar paid in taxes has bought more than a dollar's worth of local benefit. The school, hospital and sanitary-district requests for operating funds deserve consideration in this light.

THOSE SAUCERS

A friend of ours who is not given to hallucinations or hasty judgments tells us he saw—actually SAW —a flying saucer.

Without rendering an opinion as to whether there is or whether there ain't such a thing, we like to hark back to the days when William Randolph Hearst was scaring the pants off a generation with horrifying Sunday Supplement stories and drawings of ghosts, bogles and poltergeists of departed nobles supposed to inhabit remote Scottish castles or Maine peat-bogs. The spooks really sold newsprint in those days!

Most folks like to be scared, and they love nothing better than to be scared by something they can't explain. So it is with saucers. Scare the tar out of us! We love it. Bring on the Martians!

TREE REMOVAL ON FIRST ST. SOUGHT

Niles businessmen this week called for removal of several large trees on the north side of First Street on the grounds that the leafy giants (1) obstruct parking, and (2) ruin cars parked under them.

Walter Chrysler, furniture merchant, called for a Chamber of Commerce resolution asking the county to "pull out the trees." Upon a motion by C. K. Dennis, the resolution was adopted.

Vernon Ellsworth recalled that several years ago removal of the trees was asked by the merchants and approved by the Southern Pacific Railway, owner of most of the land on which the trees now stand. But before getting the county to jerk out the trees, interest was lost and the project lagged, Ellsworth said.

"By cleaning up the street and getting the Southern Pacific to put in a curb, as they once said they would do, we could plant better looking trees such as are now along the curb to the east," he declared.

"Then we could have the county paint diagonal parking lines and have plenty of parking space."

Chrysler said he objects to the palm trees because when they shed their fronds the sharp leaves either mar the finish on hard-top cars or pierce convertible tops. He said the other trees shed sap onto cars parked underneath and create a nuisance.

Ellsworth was instructed to write the Board of Supervisors to renew the request for removal.

MOTHERS, DADS TO LEARN WITH JUNIOR

A new kind of education, whereby mom and dad go right along to school with Junior, will be launched in the township if enough interest is shown by parents to warrant starting the new set-up under the adult education program here.

The program, which will be only for pre-kindergarten children and their parents, will offer a course to parents that will aid them in understanding their children's behavior problems.

In addition to a lecture class, the mothers will be present at group sessions of the children, daily from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, to put into practice the theories they learn from the lecture course.

This duo parent-child training is a unique departure in the adult education program at Washington Union High School. In order to start the class, according to Warren Gravestock, adult education principal at the high school, 25 mothers must enroll. Fathers participation is a prerequisite, for they must agree to attend the course at least once a month and assume the responsibility of helping to repair toys and play equipment.

The class tentatively set to open after schools open in September, will meet daily in the high school gymnasium building.

The local class has been approved by J. V. Goold, district superintendent. A group of young mothers, headed by Mrs. John Peters, is sponsoring the idea.

Mothers interested in enrolling are asked to contact the high school at Centerville between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. An instructor will be found as soon as the minimum 25 mothers have enrolled.

The first building erected in San Francisco, a adobe in the San Francisco Presidio, is now used as the Officers Club.

MYSTERY WOMAN IN BIG HURRICANE

How many guessed that our tight-wire walker of last week was Walter Chrysler of Niles?

This week we'll devote our "mystery" column to a member of the female sex. If you can't guess her identity, look for the answer in this issue of The Register.

She lived, as a child, in a home that was built before the Civil War.

Surrounded with magnolia blossoms, colored folk, southern belles, and all of the other "props" that characterize the deep south, her first glimpse of a yankee, at the age of nine, was a big moment in her life. She regarded him with the same curiosity and awe that a child of the 1950's might regard a flying saucer.

During the first World War she lived in Washington, D.C., where she held a position in Civil Service, in the Aircaft department. She was there when the Armistice was announced and still remembers the wild hysteria that broke loose.

An alumna of a southern college, she taught school for a while, but wanted something more exciting so became a press agent.

The most exciting event in her life, perhaps, was her experience as one of the victims of the 1926 hurricane in Miami. She had gone there to visit her sister, with a trunkful of new clothes to impress the personnel at the Army post. Came the hurricane, which took the roof off of the apartment where she was staying, and also "lifted" the clothes.

When our heroine finally appeared at the army post, she really did make an impression, for she was wearing a red sweater lent to her by a Miami fireman!

She came to California, and her first stop was Carmel. She lived in that village for a year, and became interested in little theater work there. She was a prompter for the play "Caesar and Cleopatra," and became such an enthusiastic prompter that at one performance the star of the play directed a volley of blankety-blank language at her that would have made a woman of lesser stamina quietly move out of Carmel. It seems that, in her eagerness, she had prompted him when he had paused simply to increase the dramatic effect of his main speech.

She opened a nursery school shortly after she came to the township. It was an outdoor school, located on one of the old historic ranches here. She operated this school for six years. The school numbers among its alumnae Anna Shinn, the three Roedings, the Grimmer girl, and many others.

She has been employed in her present occupation since 1936. Prior to that time she had worked in Eureka and San Luis Obispo.

She has many accomplishments of which to be proud, but she is proudest of all of her two children and her grandchildren.

Guess who!

ANTI-'PACK' LAW FOR DECOTO C. C.

Decoto's Chamber of Commerce this week voted to amend its by-laws in order to:

1. Require two membership meetings to approve grants of money or endorsal of any project.
2. Prevent new members from voting until their second meeting.

Frank Borghi introduced the first issue, and Kenny Garcia the second.

Garcia said his action was taken to prevent a flood of new members to "pack" a meeting in order to swing some project. He charged this was done recently in the controversy over a cement plant on Whipple Road.

Both amendments were held over until the September meeting.

EARTHQUAKE (j.g.)

A mild earthquake—two sharp shocks — rattled windows and dishes in the Niles-Mission San Jose area at 9:28 a.m. Sunday. The tremor was felt by comparatively few, according to reports received by Lt. Joseph Sheehan, on duty at the sheriff's substation at the time. It was barely noticed elsewhere.

ROUGH ON BEARS

California hunters killed a total of 5,700 bears during the 1950 hunting season, according to results of a postal survey conducted by the Department of Fish and Game.

California produced 1,660,000 pounds of copper in 1951.

Thinking Things Over . : :

By VIVIAN BATMAN

THAT TIME OF YEAR

Every season, like the swallows returning to Capistrano or the deer hunters to the hills, the Niles Chamber of Commerce takes to the woods. That is, they launch a campaign to cut down the trees on Main Street "so the sap won't drip down on the Niles townsfolk."

A trial balloon is sent up. There is the usual big blow-up. And the trees, in tree-like defiance, go right on dripping sap and scattering their branches helter-skelter, just as though they are aware all the time that the conspirators against them are doomed.

If the Niles Chamber of Commerce is anxious to beautify the streets of Niles, it might start a re-forestation project. Niles could use a few well-placed shade trees along its streets.

AND NOW IN NEWARK!

If you want to know all about flying saucers, ask Ken Foster of Newark. While observing on the civil defense air watch the other evening, he saw one.

Although Ken didn't have his camera along to take pictures, he nevertheless gives a graphic description. "This big glowing disc moved across the sky in erratic jerky movements," he said. "It wasn't like anything you'd ever seen. For a few minutes I thought maybe there was something wrong with my glasses. I took them off. I put them on. I took them off again. There was no mistake about it. I was, actually 'seeing things'."

Ken's report is corroborated by several others in Newark who also saw the flying saucer.

'CALL ME MADAM" PLAYING IN S. F.

The fast-swinging Irving Berlin musical extravaganza, "Call Me Madam," roared into high gear at the War Memorial Opera House, San Francisco, last week with a head of steam calculated to keep it riding high during its full four-week stand which ends on August 23.

San Francisco drama critics praised boisterous Elaine Stritch, who portrays the role of ambassador to the mythical Duchy of Lichtenberg, and also Ken Smith, seen —and heard—in the part of prime minister of the little country which makes history by turning down an American loan. A capacity opening night audience loved the opulent scenic proportions of the huge musical, so big that it travels on a special train during its coast-to-coast tour. "Call Me Madam" ran for 81 weeks in New York City and this week rings up its 750th performance.

Replete with political fun, poked at both parties; saucy with down-to-earth humor (and no messages), the fast-stepping musical contains some of Irving Berlin's best tunes including "It's a Lovely Day Today," "The Hostess with the Mostes' on the Ball," "Washington Square Dance," "The Best Thing for You Would Be Me," "You're Just in Love" and the rollicking "They Like Ike" which had spectators whistling and stamping their feet.

Performances are every night except Sunday, with matinees every Wednesday and Saturday.

SAUCERS? NOPE, JUST NILES BIKES

Heedless youngsters on bikes are the newest menace in Niles, according to Chamber of Commerce members.

Meeting this week, the chamber, heeding a plea by Dr. Tor Wilson, asked parents to warn their offspring that sidewalks are for the use of pedestrians, and to guard against hitting them.

Dr. Wilson reported two women were more or less seriously injured in recent weeks by flying cyclists.

U. S. RAIDS NET 105 'WETBACKS'

The population curve took a sharp drop in Washington Township last week-end as U. S. Immigration authorities nabbed and prepared to deport 105 illegal Mexican immigrants.

The suspects were picked up in Alvarado, Centerville and Newark with the aid of deputy sheriffs.

Thirty-two were arrested in one Alavarado labor camp.

Labor contractors and ranchers alike groaned over the arrests and scurried to find workers for the tomato harvest, just ahead.
